

Tullett Prebon Research, a blog by Dr Tim Morgan

Welcome

by Tim Morgan on March 6, 2012

Welcome to my blog. I am a strategist seeking to stimulate debate on critical issues that confront us today in the wake of the recent financial crisis.

At the heart of my research programme, as the Global Head of Research at Tullett Prebon, is a recognition that all prior assumptions, including the supposed inevitability of globalisation, are now open to question. The programme has been underway since 2010, producing some very thought provoking debate. You can view an archive of my research here.

I will use my blog to discuss topical issues and publish my research, and I welcome your comments.